SENATOR CARPENTER: Mr. President I want to alert the body that next Monday. Mr. President next Monday will be the last day in which a member can introduce a bill on his own momentum, and I would presume that some of you know and don't know. But also we've got 413 bills which in the process of the question of being completed. It would be quite helpful to those to have to print the bills and those which you are going to introduce, introduce them. I have found from experience they won't improve with age anyway. And I think you ought to introduce them in order to get them in order to get the mechanics of this body rolling so we can expedite the business. That's my only suggestion. 413 as of this morning. And Monday is the last day in which you can introduce a bill.

PRESIDENT: Let's see we have no bills on final reading this morning, unless somebody has a motion to unbracket something. Senator Carpenter for what purpose do you rise.

SENATOR CARPENTER: How many of them can we unbracket?

PRESIDENT: They were all bracketed for various reasons. I don't think the chair is in a position to guess what should be unbracketed.

SENATOR CARPENTER: Are they all amended now into what form they are to be in? Can we legally unbracket them and read them.

PRESIDENT: Senator Marvel can you respond to any of that. To the question. The question is can any of the bills on final reading there are they in any final form to be unbracketed. All right. Stand by just a minute then.

CLERK: Mr. President we have notice of committee hearing Banking Committee will be sent out in a full Journal.
